COMMUNITY ALERT
FEE WAIVER

The rules are changing. Very soon, we expect new rules that will no longer allow a person to use receipt of public benefits as a way to prove they can’t afford to pay the immigration filing fee. Receipt of public benefits has generally been the most common and easiest way to request a fee waiver and prove that a person cannot afford to pay an immigration filing fee. The changes will make it much harder.

There will be even more changes this summer. Immigration fees will probably go up and the fee waiver could be taken away. If you can apply now, do not delay!

It is easier to apply for a fee waiver based on your public benefits and that option will be taken away. USCIS is also changing the documents that you must submit to prove you qualify for a fee waiver.

Apply before the rules change!

KEY QUESTIONS
FEE WAIVER

1. Are you thinking about applying for:
   • U.S. citizenship through naturalization?
   • a U visa, T visa, VAWA, TPS?
   • a green card based on:
     • U visa, T visa
     • VAWA, SIJS
     • TPS, asylum?
   • green card renewal?
   • a work permit or work permit renewal?

2. Do you, your spouse, or the head of your household receive benefits based on your income? For example:
   • Medicaid
   • SNAP (food stamps)
   • SSI (Supplemental Security Income)
   • TANF (welfare)

If you answered yes to both these questions, submit your immigration application as soon as possible!

If you wait, it could be too late to have the filing fees waived for your application.
